

1. I hold comprehensive car insurance. In case of transport of the car by train or truck, should I take a marine policy to cover the transportation risks?

A comprehensive car policy covers transportation risk by rail, road, and inland waterways. So, one has to take a separate marine policy to cover the transport.

2. Does the City of registration affect the premium?

Yes, rating is dependent on city of registration. If the vehicle is registered at Ahmedabad, Bangalore, Chennai, Hyderabad, Kolkata, Mumbai, New Delhi, and Pune it falls in the Zone A rest comes in Zone B.

3. What to do, if I convert the fuel system from Petrol to CNG or LPG and vice versa?

Inform the insurer immediately. Any modification to the vehicle will make a difference to the policy. It could get cancelled so it is better to make sure all modifications are updated in the policy through endorsement.

4. Will I continue to get No Claim Bonus if I change insurance company for my policy?

Yes, NCB facility can be availed if there is a change of insurer on renewal. The insured has to produce proof of the NCB earned by way of renewal notice from the current insurer. Alternately, the insured can produce original, expiring policy along with a certification that insured has lodged no claims on the expiring policy. For this the proof can be in the form of a renewal notice or a letter confirming the NCB entitlement from the previous insurer.

5. Can the insurance be continued in the name of the previous owner even after the vehicle is transferred in RTO records in insured's name?

No. Registration and insurance of the vehicle should always be in the same name with the same address. Otherwise the claim is not payable. A fresh proposal form needs to be filled in. There is a nominal fee charged for transfer of insurance.

6. Can there be a No Claim Bonus for more than 1 car?

No claims bonus is separately earned for each car. So, if there is a brand-new second car, it has to be insured separately and build up its own NCB by not making a claim for it.

7. Do insurance companies check the No Claim Bonus & verify the claim history?

Yes, all insurance companies check if the No Claim Bonus and other details declared is right or not. In case of any false declarations made, the insurer may not issue or cancel (if already issued) the insurance policy.

8. Does one lose No Claim Bonus if he/she stops driving?

No, No Claim Bonus is not lost if one stops driving. NCB is lost if there is a claim in the policy year, or there is no renewal of insurance policy before its expiry date.

9. How long is NCB valid for?

NCB is valid until the next claim is made.

10. What is the benefit of zero depreciation car insurance?

Zero depreciation cover, also called 'zero dep' policy, offers complete coverage without factoring in depreciation. It means, if car gets damaged following a collision, the insured will receive the entire cost from the insurer.

11. Is TYRE covered under zero depreciation insurance?

A zero-depreciation cover does not protect the car from damage to its engine through oil leakage or water ingress. Standard wear and tear to cars and car parts such as clutch plates, tyres, bearings, etc. are not covered under nil depreciation insurance.

12. Does a zero-depreciation cover available after 5 years in motor insurance policy?

No, zero depreciation add on can be opted in motor insurance policy if the car is less than 5 years old.

13. Can Zero Depreciation be explained with an example?

For example, if the total claim amount payable is Rs 20,000 and the total cost of the car part's depreciation is Rs 6,000 then, without having a zero-depreciation cover- insurer will account for this cost and only pay Rs 14,000 (Rs 20,000 – Rs 6,000). However, if there is a zero-depreciation cover then, the entire Rs 20,000 will be received as claim amount.

14. What are the factors affecting zero depreciation car insurance premium?

- The age of the car - Since a zero depreciation addon is directly related to the aging of your car and its parts, the age of your car plays a huge factor in determining the premium for your zero depreciation addon cover.
- Model of your car - A lot depends on the model and type of your car. Since the cost of its parts too will depend on it. Therefore, the kind of car you have also plays a huge factor in determining the cost of your zero depreciation addon cover.
- Location of your car - Every city and the risks it is faced with is different. Therefore, your premium- including the additional premium of your zero-depreciation cover will be dependent on the city you drive your car in.

15. Is there any discount available on the premiums if anti-theft alarm and locking system is installed?

Anti-theft alarm discount is in-built in the SBI General Motor Insurance policy's basic pricing.

16. In case of Return to Invoice cover, what is the payment done if there is a theft?

The insured gets Invoice value plus all the taxes paid. The insurance premium amount will not be paid.

17. The vehicle's policy expired last week; can NCB still be available while renewing the policy?

Yes, NCB will be applicable as per applicable grid, subject to last year there was no claim and if the policy is renewed in 90 days of expiry of last year policy.

18. Insured forgot his mobile in his car and someone breaks the window glass and the mobile was theft. Can such incidents be covered?

Yes, it can be covered by taking personal belonging add on with the policy. In this add on we cover insured Personal Belonging for the purpose of this Endorsement means, items such as clothes and other articles of personal nature likely to be worn by the Insured including jewelries, and/or used or carried by him like Mobile, Laptop, Audio/Video tapes, CD's, but EXCLUDES money, securities, cheques, bank drafts, debit or credit cards, travel tickets, paintings, curios and items of similar nature.

19. Do I need to get my vehicle inspected before buying the policy?

For a brand-new car and renewal before expiry pre-inspection is not required. But in case of break-in of the policy inspection is a precondition for policy issuance.

20. Can I cover passengers of my vehicle for personal accident?

Yes, you can take a PA cover of up to Rs. 2,00,000 for each passenger depending on the vehicle's sitting capacity.

21. Is it necessary to declare a nominee in the policy?

Yes, for settlement of PA to owner driver claim declaring a nominee is advised. In case it is not declared at the time of taking the policy, the proceeds will be given to legal heir.